Blood Transfusion May Save Life

Blood transfusion was resorted to Thursday in an attempt to save the life of Mrs. Joseph O'Dell of Gay Street, who is seriously ill at Mercy hospital. Blood for the operation was furnished by Mrs. O'Dell's nephew, John H. Cuppert, 1661 Logan street. Dr. Gilbert Mielethwait is the attending physician.

At the hospital Saturday, it was said that Mrs. O'Dell is much stronger, and that her chances for recovery are good.

Kills Self In Same Room

In which husband suicided TOLEDO, O., April 5.—Despondent over her husband's death by suicide a year ago, Mrs. George de Guire, 52, selected the same room in which he had ended his life to hang herself Friday afternoon.

Her lifeless body was found by her son, Harvey de Guire, when he returned home in the evening. It was on March 14, 1923, that her husband, Oscar de Guire, fastened a rope about a bed post and ended his life. Since that date his widow has been despondent.

Boy, 12, Slays Another To Try Out Stolen Knife

NEW YORK, April 5.—Paul R. apkowski, 12, tonight stabbed to death a 13 year old boy he had never seen before, "just to see how far in the knife would go," he told police.

He said he and a friend had stolen a butcher's knife, in robbing a shop after they had failed to obtain money with which to attend a motion picture theatre. Wandering down the street he came across William Clifford, Jr., who was strolling beside his father.

"I wondered how far the knife would go in his back," the boy told the police. "So I walked quietly behind him and stuck it in his back."

Young Clifford died on his way to a hospital. His father captured the assailant.

D. of A. Initiates Record Class

Class initiations held in the past by White Lily Council, Daughters of America, have been big events in the history of the organization, but none compared with the class affair of last night when forty-six women and men were given degree work. The degree staff of White Lily Council performed in faultless manner and won praise for their splendid work. Not only was the event the biggest in the history of the local Council but it takes first place among the affairs of the Councils in this district which includes seven counties. The addition of almost 50 new members brings the total membership of White Lily Council near 500 mark. The local Council has in their membership a past state councillor and delegate to the National Council, Mrs. Mary E. Boyles, one of the most active in the membership, is the member bringing this honor to White Lily Council. District Deputy Mary Hazel Elrod, of New Boston was present last night. The social committee served refreshments at conclusion of the degree work.
The class accepted last night included:
Archie Hamilton, Elizabeth Burton, Nettie Hamilton, Martha Sparks, Ruth Debo, Anna Koloe, Clarence Reynolds, Ernest Carter, Robert L. Manning, W. M. Bagby, Sam Meeks, India L. McGoy Fined; Sent To Jail

Walter McGoy, West End young man, brought to trial in Municipal court yesterday on charges of possession of liquor and breaking glass in the street, was adjudged guilty of the latter offense in view of his admission, and Judge Sprague sentenced him to jail for ten days and imposed a fine of $25 and costs against him.
The liquor case was partially heard and then continued to give the defense an opportunity to bring in another witness.
The charges grew out of the arrest of McGoy by Officer Charles Reed on a hot chase on Market street Tuesday, during which McGoy smashed a couple of bottles on the street. He claims the bottles contained medicine while the officer insists the contents of the vials was moonshine liquor. Attorneys C. M. Seel and C. F. Higgins appeared for McGoy.

Auto Hits Building; Drive Hurt

Harold Book, son of Chas. Book, Jackson street, suffered a severe cut on his forehead about 6:30 o'clock Friday evening when the Ford machine he was driving crashed into the Mitchell Manufacturing Company's building on Eighth street. Book was driving east on Eighth street when a front wheel of the machine struck a loose brick, causing the car to swerve sharply to the right. It jumped the curb, crossed the sidewalk and crashed into the building. The driver's forehead was cut by glass from the windshield. A passing motorist took the young man to a physician. Book was unconscious for a short time.

Women Held On Forgery Charge Tried to End Life In Columbus

It developed yesterday that Mrs. Eva Ward, 20, two weeks bride of Warner Ward, Sterling avenue, New Boston, arrested by the police and bound over to the grand jury found in Municipal court on a forgery charge, is the young woman who last January made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide in Columbus by swallowing a concoction of poison while in a desperate mood following receipt of news that her first husband, Anthony Ward had obtained a decree for divorce in the local Common Pleas court.
The young woman lay seriously ill in a Columbus hospital for some time, but finally recovered and was brought to the home of her parents in this city and on March 24 last, married Warner Ward.
Mrs. Ward when arrested about a week ago, had several bogus checks in her possession, one of which for $50 in the name of Ed. Spangler, according to the officer, she was attempting to pass at the Winkler dry goods store on Gallia street. Police records show that she also attempted to pass invalid checks at other stores, and succeeded in passing one at the Bon Ton store when she tendered the forged check in payment for a hat.
Mrs. Ward was released from the county jail on bond last night pending grand jury action in her case.

Case Continued

The case of J. W. Wooten, arrested for alleged disorderly conduct as the result of some trouble with a man in the East End a couple of days ago, was partially heard in Municipal court yesterday and then continued to give the prosecution an opportunity to introduce additional evidence.

Costly Snooze
H. McClure, who was locked up at the city jail early Friday morning when found sleeping off a jug on the Mump's Run pipe, near the Ray Dever house, was fined $10 and costs for intoxication when brought into Municipal court Saturday.

McClure told the court he obtained his liquor supply from a stranger in New Boston and declared it must have been had stolen to knock him out in the manner it did.
Marriage Annulled
Essie Rolf was but 14 years old when she married Virgil Rolf, September 18, 1922, and Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court, Saturday, annulled the marriage on grounds of neglect and cruelty and because the plaintiff was without capacity to enter into the contract.
Testifying in her own behalf the child-wife told the court that her husband neglected and refused to support her and abused and cursed her during the time they lived together. The decree entered by the court also restored plaintiff to her maiden name of Lambin. Attorneys H. C. Noah and J. A. Goddard.

Court House

Wife Granted Divorce
On the grounds of neglect and cruelty, Mrs. Elizabeth Adkins, 107 Gay street, was divorced from Robert Adkins, Fulton, Ky., by Judge Thomas, following a hearing in Common Pleas court Saturday. She was also awarded the custody of their two minor children, aged three and two years.

Mrs. Adkins said they were married in January, 1919, at Greenup and declared that during the time she lived with the defendant he constantly and continually whipped and mistreated her, blacked her eyes at one time so that she was compelled to remain indoors for a long period of time while on another occasion, she claimed, he fired a pistol under her feet to terrorize her. Further, she stated, Adkins failed and refused to support his family properly. Attorney T. C. Bently appeared for plaintiff.

Hamah Seeks Injunction
James E. Hamah filed suit in common pleas court yesterday against Henry B. Ruel, county treasurer, and Roy H. Colburn, county auditor, as officials, seeking to prevent by court order the collection of Dow-Aiken tax amounting to $1,200.

In his petition, plaintiff says he is the owner of a building at 522 Second street, in which C. E. Hood operated a soft drink place. The Dow tax was sought by county officials, it is alleged, because of alleged liquor law violations in the Hood establishment.
Attorney Russell K. McCurdy represents Hamah.

Broken Window Mystery
County Recorder Russell K. Ketter is doing a bit of sleuthing these days. He is attempting to find out who is responsible for the broken window which was discovered in his office yesterday. The top pane of one of the side windows in the office has been mysteriously broken out. Nothing was found inside the office which could have been thrown. The hole was not large enough for one to use in gaining entrance, and the window was not opened.

Blanche Whitt Gets Divorce
Blanche Whitt, 2335 Gallia avenue, was granted a decree by Judge Thomas, divorcing her from Frances Whitt, 4033 Gallia avenue, who she married in July 1922, at Greenup, Ky.
The decree was granted on the grounds of neglect and cruelty after the plaintiff testified that Whitt before deserting her entirely in April 1923, refused to support her and frequently beat and otherwise abused her, declaring that on various occasions he left marks of violence on her body.
Whitt failed to respond to a summons to appear in his own behalf and the sheriff was ordered to bring him into court to explain his conduct in this respect. Attorney A. R. Campbell, Jr., appeared for plaintiff.

Submits List of Delinquent Street Assessments

City Auditor Earl Chandler yesterday certified to the Finance Committee of Council and Solicitor Sherard M. Johnson a complete list of delinquent street assessments, aggregating an amount in excess of $20,000 due to the city, as revealed by a checking up of the list, submitted to council at its last meeting, and then referred to the finance committee and solicitor with instructions to take the necessary steps for collection of the money.

The list, made public yesterday, with Mr. Chandler's report, follows:

To the Members of Council:

Greathouse: I have made a check of the property having delinquent street assessments in the City of Portsmouth, and am furnishing you with the name, lot number, and front footage with the amount of delinquent street assessment. I would like to have your committee take up this matter and have the proper street taken to collect same.

Wheat Bill

been suggested than to put it in a mistake to attribute to these participation certificates any legal tender value. They will be commercial paper sure and simple. I have heard statements that the farmers wouldn't accept these certificates. But let us take an actual illustration of how the bill would work. Suppose a farmer has 200 bushels of wheat to sell. The domestic price is $1.00. The rate of price of wheat to other commodities would call for a price of $1.50 a bushel if things were normal. But instead of paying the farmer that amount in cash, or $300, he would be paid for illustration, about $250. The remaining $50 would be withheld and in its place he would be given a participation certificate. Now how would we determine the value of that certificate at the end of the season? We are producing about 750,000,000 bushels of wheat of which 150,000,000 bushels would be the estimated amount needed for export, based on previous year's figures. But in the export market we would have to sell a less quantity at a dollar a bushel. This would mean a total of about $50,000,000. Add to that an approximate cost of $15,000,000 as the expense of the corporation, though I believe it would be lower than that, and you have a total cost of $65,000,000. But if out of a total production of $750,000,000 bushels, you withhold fifteen cents a bushel from the farmer for the equalization fund, you will have on hand about $112,500,000. Subtracting the $65,000,000 of expense, it leaves $47,500,000, and dividing that sum by the number of participation certificates gives the value of each which in this case would be about three cents a bushel as the final value of each certificate. That would mean for the 2,000 bushels a total of $60 in addition to his original $200 or $260 in all. Now compare that with present conditions when this farmer gets, at present prices, approximately $200 for the crop. Wouldn't he accept a scheme that assures him of more than he is getting? I am sure he will.

Mr. Brand denied that the plan interferes with the prerogative of Congress in fixing tariffs and said that just as congress had delegated authority in the case of the present flexible provisions of the tariff act it could give the proposed corporation authority to raise the tariff within a certain unassailable proportion.

The whole purpose of the bill, Mr. Brand stated, is not to encourage or fix a price but to establish a minimum price level for export. He insisted that there would be no substantial increase in production arguing that, during the war, with wheat above 95¢, dollars a bushel the total was 95¢, 100¢ bushels and that the limit of easily usable wheat lands had been reached. He declared that the bill would help other products, of course, besides wheat and would be especially helpful to the hog raisers since a ratio would be established based on the prices of other commodities. He did not see how there could be any material increase in hog production because the price of corn would regulate that. In fact, his theory is that a stabilized relation would obtain between all farm products.

Mr. Brand has against him some of the influential advisers of the administration on agricultural economics. President Coolidge is endeavoring to maintain an open market for the grain and is reported favorably to the Senate by the Agricultural committee and has the support of the Secretary of Agriculture. It is being considered in executive sessions by the House committee on agriculture and already there is evidence that the bill will be the center of attention in the agricultural world, as well as in the grain business, for many weeks to come.

SOCIETY

A joyful event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thomas on Third avenue and Kinney's Lane Friday evening, the occasion being the forty-fourth anniversary of Mr. Thomas. Mrs. Thomas carefully planned and carried out the affair, and when her husband returned from work at 5:30 o'clock he found a sumptuous dinner prepared and a number of his friends assembled to remind him of the happy occasion. The long table was decorated with a large birthday cake mounted with forty-four candles and places were laid for the members of the Portsmouth Gospel Quartet, of which the honor guest is a member, and their families as follows:

Mr. William Poutney, wife and daughter Ruth. Mr. E. F. Singer, wife and children, Jimmie, Kenneth and Dorothy. Mr. Jake Hobbs, wife and daughter Madge. Other guests were Mr. J. B. Thomas, a brother of Mr. Thomas, and Mrs. Rose Johnson a sister. Mrs. Alice Garvin, Mrs. Mary Clayton, Miss Maudine Murray, Mr. Elmer Moore, wife and children, Robert and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peatty, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson and daughter Jean, Mrs. Rosa Armstrong, Miss Pearl Miller, Clifford Loudonback and Mrs. Thomas and children, Fred, Mary and Eugene. The quartet entertained with several selections, then rendered several instrumental pieces on their musical saws.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Old Town M. E. Church and the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Bethel M. E. Church will meet on next Wednesday, April 9th, at the home of Mrs. Frank Bridges on the Galena Pike. All members and friends are invited to be present as an interesting program is being prepared for the occasion.

Six Horses Perish In Fire Which Wiped Out Evans' Barn On West Side

Pikeville Man Kills Wife and Boarder

PIKEVILLE, KY., April 5.—(Unep.)—Pikeville man killed his wife and boarder yesterday. Eli Adkins, 35, a lumber man, says he found his wife and Charles Habeeb, an Assyrian, in a room together. He shot and instantly killed both of them and then went to the court house and surrendered. He is at liberty on $2,000 bond.

Habeeb, who had been traveling as a peddler in Eastern Kentucky for some years, had lived at the Adkins home for seven months.

The double murder leaves three children motherless. The eldest is a boy of 8 years, another is a girl of 6 and the baby is a boy of 7 months.

A tractor engine and a touring car owned by Mrs. Ella Evans, who is in charge of the farm, were saved. The loss is placed at $3,500 and is partially covered by insurance.

When the fire was discovered at 9 o'clock last night, completely destroyed the barn on the Evans farm, Evans' Grove, Friendship, West Side. The flames spread so rapidly that six horses perished in the flames, efforts made to rescue them being futile. Four tons of timothy hay, three tons of fertilizer and farm implements were also destroyed.

When the fire was discovered at 9 o'clock last night, completely destroyed the barn on the Evans farm, Evans' Grove, Friendship, West Side. The flames spread so rapidly that six horses perished in the flames, efforts made to rescue them being futile. Four tons of timothy hay, three tons of fertilizer and farm implements were also destroyed.

A tractor engine and a touring car owned by Mrs. Ella Evans, who is in charge of the farm, were saved. The loss is placed at $3,500 and is partially covered by insurance.

Shooting Near Pineville

PINEVILLE, KY., April 5.—Quick obtained today at the mining camp of the Liberty Coal & Coke Company, on Straight Creek, following a firearm contest in which two non-union miners from West Virginia, George Lucas, was killed and Edward Dismann wounded.

Mining operations were suspended following the shooting late yesterday.
Governor Fields asked company officials in a joint conference to arbitrate differences. Today neither side had indicated what answer would be made.

Promoters Expect

Record in Flight

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, April 5.—
—(By the A. P.)—A new American record and a new world's record for free balloon flights are anticipated by members of the San Antonio Aeronautic Association and by con-trants in the National Balloon race which is scheduled to start from Kelly Field on the afternoon of April 23. The American record of approximately 1,400 miles was made in 1910 by Post and Hawley who landed in the wilds of Canada, north of Quebec. The world's record is 1,596 miles and was made in Europe.

By making San Antonio the starting point, officials believe they have made it possible for new records to be established. It is pointed out that the drift of air currents in previous races has almost invariably carried the balloons toward the north, the St. Lawrence river. From Kansas City and St. Louis, both of which have been starting points, the distance is about 1,100 miles and this has been the normal course of the flight. From San Antonio the drift of the air currents also is toward the north of the St.
Lawrence. Thus, balloons rising here will have to the strain on the St. Lawrence approximately 2,400 miles.

PILES

Treated Without Surgery

A simple case of PILES is considered by most people as a matter of no more concern than the spelt of Protruding, bleeding, itching, pain and annoyance which they suffer in the early stage.
Little do they realize the terrible condition into which PILES frequently develop, and the terrible nerve waste that goes on all the time, due to the strain on the Sympathetic Nervous System.

Thousands of people are far from being up to the standard either in body or mind, simply because of the constant annoyance and irritation of the rectum. This need not be so if the proper treatment were used in the right time, in the right way.

The wisdom of a rational, scientific, non-surgical treatment has been fully demonstrated and has long since passed the experimental stage. Why suffer the tortures of a surgical operation, when you can be successfully treated without it or less of time?
So many have taken advantage of my private trips to Portsmouth and the results have been so gratifying, that I have decided to make weekly trips for a while so they can get the full benefit of the treatment.

I will be at the Washington Hotel, Monday, April 7, where I will be glad to give you a free examination and tell you exactly what can be done in your case.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED. Bring your family physician with you if you wish.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sallie Beck, employee of the Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curtis. That night Sallie goes into the yard to take down a washing for Mr. Brennan, with whom Sallie lives. A crash strikes the earth and something strikes Sallie a blow on the head.

When she regains consciousness, the girl finds herself in strange surroundings. A French maid calls her Alva Copeland and calls her Alva. Sallie decides to pretend that she is a rich, well-to-do woman, claims her as her step-daughter. Sallie meets Conrad Wheeler, who makes love to her. She resolves to solve the mystery of why she is being substituted for the real Alva Copeland.

Michael Curtis and his friend, Captain Trevor, starts the trail of Alva and Sallie. Sallie decides to pretend that she is acting in accord with the wishes of the Copelands.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Look, Miss Alva! Are they not beautiful?" the maid exclaimed gushingly as she took a huge bunch of violets from the box. "This envelope is for you, of course, but will this not be true child against the gray of your robe?"

Sallie looked at the card to gain time to consider the most consistent move in this double role she was playing and arriving at a quick decision, yawned and threw the card face upward upon the table. It was a plain one and bore, in the peculiar flaring writing which had accompanied the card of the day before just three words: "Good morning, from Wheeler."

"If I say they're all right!" Sallie exclaimed in as tough a manner as she could assume. "Cousin Wheeler's little white-haired boy, ain't he? Sure I'll wear 'em this time. There, but what's the doing? Is he gonna call me names, too?"

"Madame has invited Miss Sallie for lunch, I think, and as you are so happily recovered, Miss Alva, it is permitted that you again take your place." Theresa's head was bowed as she pinned the violets to the gray silk and her tone was dignified and somewhat stern. "Madame is waiting for you in the sitting room." A bright sunlight streaming in at a great bay-window replaced the candle-glow of the previous day and the mauve room appeared larger and more austere in spite of its elaborate furnishings. Mrs. Copeland, too, as she rose to receive the girl seemed to have lost a little of her gracious poise and beneath the cosmetics her face was haggard.

"Good morning, Alva, dear—!" She bent forward as though to kiss her but Sallie drew back.

"Good morning, Mrs. Copeland," she responded deliberately. "I'm glad to get a chance for this talk with you."

"I don't understand," Mrs. Copeland faltered, taken aback at the boldness of the attack.

"Oh, you get me all right!" retorted Sallie coolly. "You know I'm not your step-daughter, this Alva kid, and you know there ain't anything more the matter with my head than there is with yours!"

"If you are not my step-daughter," Mrs. Copeland said slowly as she sank into a chair and mechanically gestured to another. "Who are you?"

"Don't you wish you knew?" Sallie smiled triumphantly.

"My dear, we all know about you," Mrs. Copeland rose to the bait. "You are Sarah Beck, and you worked in a store in Shaftsbury—"

"Sure I do! That's me!" Sallie interrupted, with elaborate over-enga-ment. "You don't know who my folks are, though, nor the crowd I travel with!"

"We have ascertained that you have no relations but have lived with Mrs. Brennan, and that a young de-lusive servant of the police has been paying you attention."

Sallie laughed long and loud, and Mrs. Copeland eyed her with growing wonder.

"Paying me attention, eh? That's good! I ain't tying up with any bull, believe you me!"

"You—you don't seem like the same girl you were yesterday!" she murmured. "Your speech, your manner—it does not seem possible!"

"I can be a lady when I like!" Sallie flashed up in pretended anger, then added: "There ain't no need of it now and besides, it's a nuisance."

"Nevertheless, my girl, you will find that it pays. There was a significance in Mrs. Copeland's tone and lost upon her companion. From Kansas City and St. Louis, both of which have been starting points, the
distance is about 1,100 miles and
this has been the normal course

Man, 61, Expires on Birthday, After 47
Days Without Food

DAYTON, O., April 5.—Daniel Johnson died last night, his 61st birthday anniversary, soon after breaking a 47 day fast. Johnson started fasting in early February in an effort to rid himself of stomach trouble. Until last Sunday night Johnson did not taste food in any form. His wife, Mary, started fasting four days after her husband began his long abstinence from food. She also broke the fast Sunday night when both drank some oatmeal broth.

Woman Held Charged
With Slaying Man

CHICAGO, April 5.—A coroner's jury today recommended that Mrs. Beulah Amann, charged with the slaying of Harry Kloster in her apartment yesterday, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Amann today was laughing and crying in turns as she told the police she shot Kloster, whom she had known for about two months, when he threatened to leave her, and how she played jazz records on the phonograph after the shooting, finally calling her husband and telling him she had shot a man.

Justice Of Peace
Quits Dry Raids,

CLEVELAND, April 4.—Announcement that one justice of the peace has given up the dry raiding business and a request by State Senator George H.
Bender that Governor A. C. Donahy, remove another from office were today the major law enforcement developments here.

Justice John H. Thompson of Parma township notified County Prosecutor Stanton, who is investigating raiding activities of justices of the peace and village mayors that he has discharged his 17 raiders and hereafter will confine his activities to his own bailiwick.
His office in a Cleveland office building has been closed.

Senator Bender said he had written Governor Donahy to remove a Royalty township justice after he learned that raiders who had broken into Bender's mother-in-law's home and searched for liquor a few weeks ago were from his office.

Three special constables employed by the Royalty justice when arraigned on a charge of stealing several bottles of pre-war whisky which they seized in a raid, demanded jury trials today. Their cases were set for Tuesday.

Cleveland Plant Is Destroyed by Fire

CLEVELAND, O., April 5.—Fire which broke out in the Pennsylvania Electric Supply Company building, Twenty-Eighth Street and Prospect Avenue, last night, gutted the plant with a loss of $250,000. Ten families living in a rooming house adjoining the two-story brick building and four families living over a garage to the rear were forced into the street.

Three alarms brought out all of the down town apparatus. Several firemen narrowly escaped serious injuries when a drum of alcohol exploded.

Bank Cashier Takes
His Life; Find Body
Hanging in Home

ZANESVILLE, OHIO, April 5.—The lifeless body of James Garlinger, 29, assistant cashier of the Somerset Bank, Perry county, and one of New Lexington's best known young men, was found Friday night, hanging in the basement in the home of his father, A. A. Gar-linger, president of the Citizens National Bank, New Lexington. The discovery of the suicide was made by the mother of the young man, following a visit to her daughter in Newark.

From the condition of the body it is the opinion of physicians that Gar-linger hanged himself early Thursday evening. The body was suspended from a clothes-line attached to a rafter in the laundry room of the basement. No statement could be obtained from members of the family, but it is believed that domestic trouble may have prompted the suicide. Garlinger was married and was the father of two children, but for the past two years it was said he had not lived with his wife and chilren but had made his home with his parents.

On Handlin' Husbands

AN APPRECIATIVE BRUTE

Miss Fawn Lippincott, authority on affairs of the heart, an expert paper flower maker, has received the following query:
My dear Miss Lippincott:
I am twenty-two years old and I'm married to a fellow that used to like the theater and keep shaved when he was courtin' me, an' altho had some compliments, I pay me on my person appearance. He was nearly as pleasant when he called an' thought nothin' of stayin' up till one o'clock. According to what he said, his employment was congenial an' his stepin' stone 't big things.
He altho talked about the kind of a house he'd build an' ever' thing, still in go back to my old position as a stenographer anytime, but I'm tied up with a couple of children, still I'm willin' to give him every chance if you will help me. He comes home in the middle of the afternoon tired an' knock over, show in town without havin' seen 'em, an' the children seem 't git on his nerves. He says a folly's a fool 't build a house with jath sellin' at six cents a piece an' carpenters ridin' in autos. He says shiny hands are becomin', an' he's glad I never go downtown like all the other women. He won't git a baby can till the price comes down.

He growls all the time 'cause his employer seems 't be makin' money when he was courtin' me, an' hangin' around home an' trellin' 't cut the gas bill down, it's fairly maddenin'.
Jest 't prove what crazy ideas he has, he ain't either a Democrat or a Republican, an' besides he wants t settle down an' I ain't ready.
My Ma 't take the children any minute, but I hate 't make a mess of things an' have him shootin' me besides I love him.

Despondent.

My Poor Little Nut:

Tell him where 't head in. He thinks he's got you bluffed. Tell him you're goin' straight back t stenography where people are human an' considerate. Tell him ever wife has the right 't enjoy the messages as well as the sacrifices of matrimony. Cut your skirt off, an' doff your feet up, an' cooah your hair over your ears, an' go t your husband's place of business, or factory, or wherever he is, an' make him give you some money for a pair of rubber gloves. Hold dinner back on him an' hour or so, an' tell him that from now on things have got t run fifty-fifty, that you want a woman t come two days a week an' clean the house up an' do the wash-in. Tell him t shave his neck an' slick up, an' call his attention t all the things he lied t you about. Tell him you're goin' t give him one chance t show his share of your partnership, an' if he don't make good, he kin tear out an' you'll go back where you was on a payin' basis before he ever came along.

Don't whine, but hand it to him, an'
if he don't git down on his knees have him put under a bond an' go back t downtown work.

Daugherty Calls Pepper's Speech
"Cowardly Cry," Says Senator
Has Judged Him Undefended

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(By the
A. P.)—Senator Joseph R. Daugherty, Republican, in a statement tonight called Senator Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvania, for his speech at Portland, Maine, yesterday in which he said the selection of Mr. Daugherty for attorney general seemed to him the mistake of one now dead.

"I think it all dead ending," is the keynote which the Pennsylvania senator would have the Republican party adopt for the presidential campaign, Mr.
Daugherty declared, adding that any such "cowardly cry" will "sound the death knell of Republican success in the coming election."

"I recall that many years ago," the statement said, "a man of self-assured and unctious rectitude defeated the Republicans by sounding a keynote which was resented by thousands of Republicans. Senator Pepper makes a strong bid in his so-called keynote speech to become the Burchard of today and to outshine his famous predecessor in the Blaine campaign."

Pointing out that he had had no opportunity to present his defense before the senate investigating committee, Mr.
Daugherty charged that Senator Pepper who would vote on the question of adoption or rejection of the committee's report, "prejudges the case, throws me and my honor to the wolves, undefended and condemned."

"He stands me on the scaffold," the statement added, "and in full view of the American people, places responsibility for me and my record on the dead president and aims to use me to point a moral and adorn a tale."

Proud Of Record

"When reason is restored and motives actions and judgments are weighed with deliberation, it will be found that the record of my administration of the department of justice will be one of which the American people will be proud."

Mr. Daugherty declared that Senator Pepper had "desecrated appointment by President Harding as solicitor general of the United States, but Mr. Daugherty after receiving adverse reports from both the late Senators Knox and Penrose of Pennsylvania, had recommended against the selection."

"They," (Knox and Penrose) the statement said, "refused their endorsement on the ground that he was not qualified by legal experience or temperament and on the further but less important ground that he had no claim on the party for political honors."

CAMERAGRAMS

AN UNUSUAL POSE OF IRENE CASTLE, famed the world over as dancer, woman's fashionplate, and graceful model. This silhouette of Irene was made recently in Cleveland in connection with a national style show held in the Fifth City.

TWO GUNS WHITE CALF, Indian orator of Glacier National Park, takes issue with U.S. Senator Adams of Colorado that "a Blackfoot chief had attained his position by being the best horse thief in the tribe." "That," said Two Guns White Calf, "was many moons ago when 'everything went,' much like the lifted lid before our paleface friends enjoyed before the moonshining amendment made them hide from the law to have a good time."

ALTERNATE to the Republican national convention. This is Mrs. George Barnett, wife of the former commandant of the marine corps. She was named by the seventh congressional district of Virginia.

THE FIRST AMERICAN JACKIE to set foot in British Somersland. That distinction belongs to Signatman C. C. Campbell of Washington, D. C., who is shown here as he landed. No facilities were found to land the crew and an antiquated cooling chair was pressed into service and the jackies carried ashore one by one.

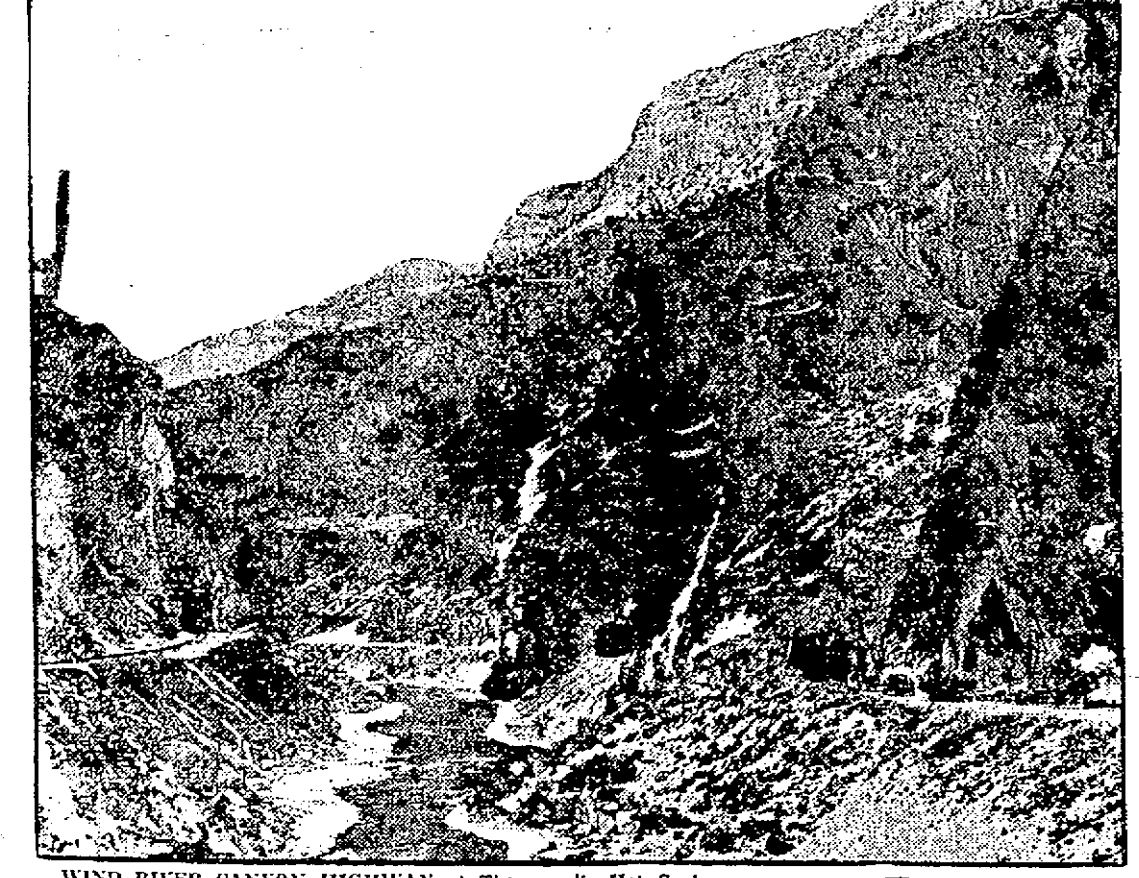

HEROIC STATUE of Champlain, the famous French explorer and adventurer of the 17th century, whose exploits figure prominently in the history of the North American continent. The statue is called the March Figure of Champlain, and is to be erected in Orillia, Canada.

NO SUPERSTITION IN HER MARKET. Marie Ivogan, famous Viennese coloratura soprano, is shown here in her "Carmen" costume, telling her fortune with the cards. While they indicate two admirers nearby, she is not apprehensive that the fate of the tragic Carmen will overtake her.

FIRST-ROW PATRONS WERE PROMISED A NEW THEAT when 16 charming Japanese odasses arrived in San Francisco recently to entertain American vaudeville goers. Together with eight male members of the troupe, they will tour the United States, appearing in practically every city, with the possibility of a European tour to follow. Among them is Madame Tenekatsu, who is known as the "Cary, Plekford of Japan." The picture was snapped just as the boat which brought them to San Francisco was docking.

HER GOAL IS to hike around the world and visit every capital. Nellie Walker, a walker from Los Angeles, who started her trip in February, 1923, is shown as she reached Baltimore, Md. So far on her trip she has visited 41 capitals. And she says she has never accepted a "lift."

WHAT IS THE THINKER THINKING ABOUT? Our guess is that he's glad the sculptor made him of convenient shape for Peggy Hyde (left), and Babe Hamley, San Francisco girls, to declare him the best resting place in their city. What's yours?

A SURVIVAL OF THE EARLY 80's. This is the lone locomotive of the most primitive railroad in the world. Its job used to be to haul flatcars of logs along log rails from lumber camps in the Sierra Nevada mountains to a sawmill near Truckee, Calif. Note the wooden boiler and wooden water tank in front.

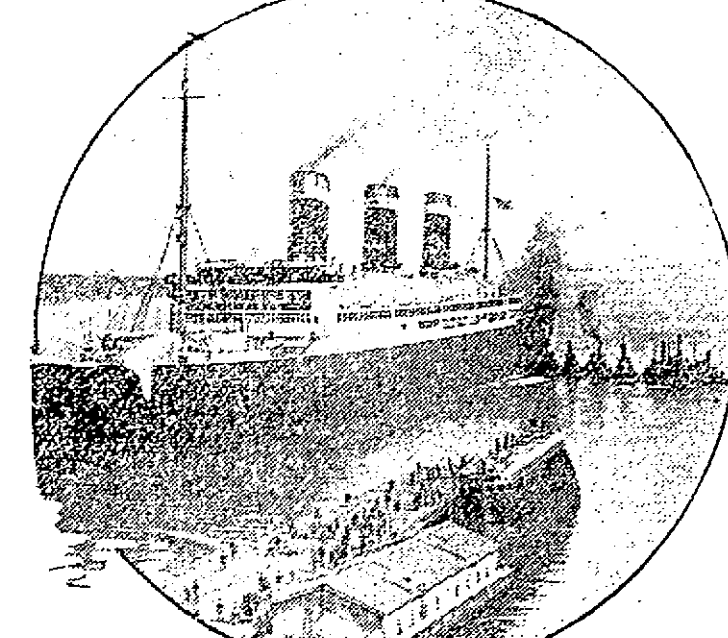

GERMAN FORCES ON THE RHINE. General Von Seeckt, commander of the Rhineland division of the German forces, is shown here reviewing his troops on the snow-covered parade grounds at Weimar. German generals still are snappy dressers if their troops aren't. Note Von Seeckt's monocle.

INSPIRATION was the role played by this young lady, Miss Grace Rolnick of Oklahoma, in the recent play called "The Sunken Bell," given by students of Mills College, Calif. The "male" lead was played by Miss Katherine Easterling of Huntington Park, Calif.

FRENCH DEBUTANTE. This is Miss Claire Heilmann, popular daughter of the secretary of the French embassy and Madame M. Heilmann, who, with her sister Helene, recently returned to Washington after spending several months at their home in France.

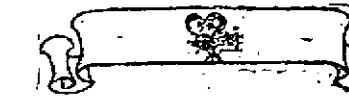

THE MONARCH OF THE SEAS. Here is the world's greatest passenger liner, the Leviathan, being pulled out of drydock in Boston, where damage caused by her grounding in New York harbor had to be repaired. The Leviathan owns the world's record for speed, and expects to surpass even her own best performances.

TOSSING THE BOVINE, or, in more vulgar parlance, throwing the bull. The photograph shows Rollo, a Glacier National Park guide, demonstrating man's superiority over the beast. To get an idea of the effort the steer is exerting to keep himself erect, note the enlarged veins in his back. The twist in his tail indicates he's about to flop under the tremendous strain.

CHILDREN GROW HEALTHY TAKING FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
6/Olive Roberts Barton

A black and white cartoon illustration. On the left, a man in a top hat and tuxedo stands and talks to two children. The children, a boy and a girl, are facing him. In the background, a large, dark, cat-like creature with a human-like face is visible. The scene is set in a garden with trees and bushes. The artist's signature 'J. R. H.' is in the bottom right corner.

"Will you please help me to find my tail?" asked the patient fussy cat.

Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz almost lost their voices with astonishment. If someone had said, "It's going to rain gunpowder tomorrow," they couldn't have been more shocked.

"Your tail! Lost?" they all cried. "Are you sure?"

"Pretty sure," said the cat. "But you can see for yourselves." And he turned slowly around until their astonished eyes beheld his back, as tailless as a zinnia pig.

"Gracious!" cried Nancy. "What has happened to your tail?"

"I was asking her to get it answered

"Well, I won't turn around, and I haven't any tail. Who'd have a tail anyway? They are only in the road."

"They asked the dog and the puppy and the rabbit and the duck and just everybody—but nobody had the cat's tail."

Suddenly they heard a whacking, smacking sound.

The rag doll was cleaning house for the pin-cushion lady and beating her rugs.

And what do you think? She was using "Puss" lovely tail for a carpet beater!

"The dog got her brownstick in a jiffy and Puss got his tail back so it all turned out finely. I am glad to say."

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — THE MAGIC TUBE

"Yes, what are you laughing at?" said a voice. Jack turned around and saw his old friend, the magic tube. "What did you leave me for?" asked Jack. "Oh," said the tube. "I wanted you to have the fun of crossing the rubber river so I came over here and sent the boat after you."

Jack admitted that he had had a lot of fun. Then he looked up at the queerest tree he had ever seen. "What kind of a tree is that?" he asked. "Why, that's one of the famous trees of Rubber Land," replied the tube. "Just shake it and see what a surprise you'll get."

So Jack took hold of the trunk of the tree and started shaking it up and down. Instantly there was a shower of rubber balls. They fell down on Jack and on the tube. As soon as they hit they would bounce back again, and the air was just filled with bounding balls. (Continued)

BRINGING UP FATHER

OBITUARY

Mrs. Malinda Miller
Mrs. M. S. Noel, 2806 Gallia street, received a message conveying the sad news of the death of her aged mother, Mrs. Malinda Miller, which occurred yesterday at Van Wert, Ohio, where she had made her home for a number of years. Her death was caused by a stroke of paralysis, which she suffered about ten months ago, superinduced by infirmities.

Mrs. Miller was a daughter of the late Joseph and Malinda Miller, pioneers of Scioto county, and the widow of the late Silas Miller, Civil War Veteran, who died 20 years ago. She was born in Scioto county September 11, 1844, consequently had attained the ripe old age of almost 80 years.

Six children survive as follows: Mrs. Miller and Mrs. John Nangle and Mrs. Nora Lowrey of Van Wert; Mrs. Malinda Gresham, of Missouri; and George Miller, of Rosemont, Ill., and Mrs. Noel of Gallia avenue, this city.

George Miller of Robinson avenue, Mrs. Henry Clark of Ninth street, Mrs. Dave Beck of Lanesville, Aaron Miller, Cephart, Station, Mrs. Alfred Canary, Mercer county, Ohio, and Edward Miller, state of Washington, are brothers and sisters.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon and burial will be made there.

Eva Fay, high priestess of Mysticism, is presented at the Eastland starting Monday for the entire week. She is a Psychic marvel of the Twentieth Century in her Wierdly Wonderful offering "Channutary." Madame Fay is a very cultured woman having completed her education in London and Paris, and then returned to Boston to live. She married John T. Fay, the only son of Anna Fay, who is remembered throughout the Southwest by all the older and many of the younger generation. She lives in Haven on the Hudson and has an estate which adjoins that of Rex Beach and his wife, who is a sister of Fred Stone, Walker Whiteside is also one of her neighbors. She spends her summers at home and devotes most of her time to study of philosophy and science. Madame Fay was a very young girl when she married, but Mr. Fay died at a very early age. At Hammonstein's she appeared for 31 weeks in New York City meeting with a marvelous success. She advised people of prominence, those who seek power, wealth, office, those who are victims of love, and won confidence of the seer, skeptical and nonbeliever. She predicts much prosperity in America in 1924, politically and financially. America will be better off than ever before and there will be a stride toward justice in all things. She has impressed others that President Coolidge will be our next President. She says that the old world turmoil will continue; France will break with an ally; England will experience a political upheaval; India, Spain, Turkey, Mexico and China will suffer results. Again let us be thankful to be Americans.—Advertisement 15-6.

Death Calls J. B. Willim

J. B. Willim, of Vanceburg, well-known as an "owner of race horses" throughout this section, answered the final summons at Mercy hospital about 8:10 o'clock Saturday morning as the result of an operation for appendicitis and gall stones he underwent Thursday. He came to the city last Sunday and entered the hospital for treatment. J. B. Willim was born in Lewis County, Ky., March 8, 1865 and had spent virtually all his life in the vicinity of Vanceburg. His wife passed away in 1914. Surviving are five brothers and sisters, J. C. Willim, of Miami, Okla.; W. T. Willim, of Muskogee, Okla.; B. C. Willim, of Vanceburg; Mrs. Calvin Stevenson, of Ft. Thomas, Ky.; and Mrs. J. T. McCormick, of Tis-

THE WAY OF DEMAGOGUES

THAT Harlan F. Stone, of New York, selected by President Coolidge to succeed Harry Daugherty as attorney general, is capable, that he is a strong man, noted for his independence of thought and ruggedness of character, is something upon which all seem agreed. He seems to possess the qualities needed at this juncture in the high office to which he has been appointed. But, judging from David Lawrence's dispatch published in Friday evening's Times, that queer bunch of Western politicians known as the progressive bloc, are deeply disturbed and refuse to be comforted at Stone's selection. Why? Because he comes from the East and also because a gentleman who was his partner in the practice of law some years ago, married a daughter of the late J. P. Morgan! With this excuse cloaking their disappointment because Coolidge did not get scared at their taint-toms and name one of their own little clique of disturbers as attorney general, the LaPollettes, Brookharts and Shipsteads are preparing war medicine. Not that they would have loved Coolidge more if he had listened to them. Far from it. They would have kept right on undermining him. The only difference is that now there will be a little more edge to their attacks.

We wonder, however, if the people of the United States are not getting a little tired of a noisy minority of mount-banks and demagogues riding in the saddle and dictating legislation and about everything else in the country? Is it not about time to pay heed to the same, level-headed men in our legislative halls, and forget the blatant demagogues who came into being because of economic unrest and who thrive only in the white light of publicity? For our part we think it is high time. And we hope the day is at hand when a man of acknowledged character and ability can accept public service without being hounded simply because he has made himself a name in the world, and has built himself up to a position of influence and standing in the community.

MOTOR EDUCATION

THE alarming rate at which deaths due to motor accidents are increasing make it plain that nothing but concerted action can control the evil. A recent survey of New York City shows that out of 234 accidents which occurred in a single month, 94 were due to careless driving on city streets. It is a depressing fact that of these 50 were children.

The same dangers lurk in every city, and in lesser degree in every town and country road. For the highway situation in general, there is but one remedy, education. Three classes of persons should be affected by such education: parents, children, and those who drive machines.

People need to know the traffic laws, and further, they should be put constantly on their guard. A development of the sense of courtesy can do much to obviate the danger of smashups. When caution becomes the rule rather than the exception, the country need not give up each year its needless toll of lives through motor accidents.

Is Portsmouth growing? A short drive about the city answers the question. On almost every vacant lot there are houses building, or preparations being made to start building, while numerous new additions are being prepared for the market near the city limits. We are going to reach Alan Jordan's sixty thousand long before the five years he gave us, and then we'll go on climbing towards that hundred thousand he visioned in the future.

When William Bennett was county commissioner some years ago, he made an enviable record as a clean, honest, efficient official. His candidacy now for that office, is a most welcome one. He is the type of man who will render good service, and about him there will circle no suspicion of graft or chicanery.

It would not hurt the city to oil the boulevard road while it is being used as a detour. As it is now, it is a cloud of dust from dawn to dusk.

It must be awful to own the best car on the market and not be able to wish you had a better one.

With sadness over our loss, mingled with pleasure over his good fortune, we acknowledge receipt of the resignation of Hon. James Starling, vice president of the Disappointed Club. James has been soothed with a job. Not much of a job to be true, but still a political job. He has a huge title, Superintendent of the Street Repair Force. His duties are not onerous. He has to sit on the curb and watch three men patch holes in the street. But it takes him out of our famous club and we are sorry, though glad.

More and more are signs pointing to the nomination of James M. Cox as the democratic candidate for the presidency. Down in this direction sentiment is strongly for the Dayton man, and the candidates who will support him for president, William A. Inman and George B. Nye will be elected overwhelmingly.

When we read several months ago that the Norfolk and Western railroad had appropriated several hundred thousand dollars for a new passenger station at an unknown point, we saw visions of that "next depot" of ours becoming a reality. However we have again lost hope. And so we again say the N. & W. is going to give us adequate passenger facilities—next year.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 5—The middle-aged women who flock to the afternoon teas and dances with swarming young escorts are interesting studies. They have a regal, glacial manner, despite the commonness of their flirty perennials.

Most of them are obviously rich and they have the disillusioned gaze of those to whom all things are vanity. Their gowns are from the finest shops. The tell-tale marks of long sleep with the beauty parlors are noticeable.

They appear tremendously bored with the prattle of the sleek young men who sit across from them. These are the pinky-pinned young men who are always one of the metropolitan mysteries. They live in half-bedrooms, but they appear well-to-do.

They play a good game of tennis or golf, dress in the latest fashion and yet they never work. Even the women who tolerate them to flatter away an hour or so tellum would never think of inviting them to their homes.

There is an effort not to be seen by friends. The women have the vanished perfection and the untouchable independence of the rich—and what others think has no effect in their own set, at least, they are held blameless.

Mostly their marriages have been those of endurance. Only money made them tolerable. Their husbands leave their downtown offices and go to the club for bridge and the Scotch and soda. They are as likely as not to live at the club for a week without going home.

Matrimony By Elimination
A pretty nurse had for a patient a crabbled old millionaire who kept her running in and out on trivial errands. He wanted the widow opened and that he wanted it closed. The pretty nurse was kept busy.
"Never mind," said the house doctor, trying to be jocular. "He may ask you to marry him."
"Yes, he may," said the nurse. "He has about run out of other requests."
